

Students take to the water to learn about river

Published Tuesday, June 2, 2009

Several area schools have devised programs to put students in kayaks and let them see firsthand the ecosystems that thrive in the many waterways in Beaufort County.

Here, a group of eighth-graders explore May River.